What happened to you?
Last time we talked you said you need some time
That you were moving to the Westside
What happened to us?
To think we could've worked it out
But your head was only filled with doubt

By now you'd see
You're falling by the wayside of your needs

Following you
To trip in someone else's shoes
No it never really paid my dues
I was fighting for the wrong side
While you were just along for the ride

By now you'd see
You're falling by the wayside of your needs
So many times dramatize the lie and all it feeds
You're falling by the wayside

By now you'd see
You're falling by the wayside of your needs
Can we ever reconcile the cities in between?
You're falling by the wayside
Falling by the wayside
