You only think about
Yourself and no one else
Pick me up then push me down
Let me in then shut me out
So don't start up again
This story has to end
You cried wolf for the last time
Now no one's listening

I wish I could see your face
When your falling down
You brought this on yourself
Now no one's listening
I wish I could see your face
When you hit the ground
You brought this on yourself
And now there's no one around

You live a life of lies
You hide the truth inside
Tangled in a web you spun
Pull a thread it comes undone
You think that you got away
But there is a price to pay
You cried wolf for the last time
Now no one's listening

I wish I could see your face
When your falling down
You brought this on yourself
Now no one's listening
I wish I could see your face
When you hit the ground
You brought this on yourself

The life that you choose to lead
The person you claim to be
The lies that you told to me
I finally figured out
You'll see the consequences now

I wish I could see your face

When your falling down
You brought this on yourself
Now no one's listening
I wish I could see your face
When you hit the ground
You brought this on yourself
And now there's no one around
