People say things and they don't mean it, there's a cause and effect but then they're too blind to see it. I wanted to show this so now you can see there's a future you don't want that's going to be here.

Where only the wealthy can reproduce and this is planting the seed inside of someone like you someone determined not to let you choose, but then if your life may, well then there's nothing to lose

We are held by a future unsung yet, by a past we can't forget, we live in the same day. We are now where the lie becomes the truth where there's nothing left to lose, we live in the same way.

Another pact to gently distract, keep holding me up while I keep holding you back, double standards but its alright the way it'll be will keep him too tired to fight. If it gets awkward we'll call a truce and if you're talking of me then I'll be looking at you, I'll give you the floor and then I'll take a bit more its been this way since 1984

We are held by a future unsung yet, by a past we can't forget, we live in the same day. We are now where the lie becomes the truth where there's nothing left to lose, we live in the same way.

We are watching you, can you hear me?
