You won't be able to hold me anymore
I can't even feel the warmth of your hands

From a place where you could touch the sky, you jumped Why did you leave me behind?

Red, red, my wrists stained and dripping red I'm looking into my heart but it's all lies

One day I'll be another star in the sky streaming across the Milky Way No matter how many times we kiss my voice breaks, breaks, into sobs

I've thrown out every memory of you Through the tears, I shut them away deep in my heart

Even if time dulls the pain it feels good to scream and melt my heart away

Sounds, colors, voices, and the Earth, it's all gone Light will never shine upon me again

Time flows and the past fades away just like bubbles
I'm going to sleep and never waking up Give me the scent of a sweet, sweet dream

Is it too late for me?
I see bright white flowers scattered everywhere

I've become a silver star in the sky
streaming across the Milky Way
I can hardly breathe, I'll reach out and I'm certain I'll feel the touch of your hand The Vega star is stitched in the clouds like a blanket and wrapped gently, so gently, we fall asleep

The cold no longer matters, my heart is no longer suffering
