See the grain that's falling from above
The falling piece of sky It's time to turn the hourglass again and some more hope you'll buy

Aren't you scared of the sun?
You know it could burn you down
One day you fly and the next you crawl on the ground

Read the runes and try to watch your steps
Your life is made of snares Once you're high you're scared to see the depths
When is your next despair?

One day the light nears
The next is disappears It's like an orbit 'round a sun that is never real Shapping the boundaries of all infinities
You circumnavigate 'round a thrut you could never feel

Aren't you scared of the sun?
You know it could burn you down Once day you fly and the next
you crawl on the ground
Always relapsing into the suffering Futurity will be draw from your memories

You'll see the real sun beyond the bygones Why don't you try to believe in new itinaries?

Aren't you scared of the sun?
You know it could burn you down
Here come the sign of the next
