You always walk strange and grasp at false hopes
If life was given to you make it produce Come out of obscurity taking hold of an aggressive rope
Rebel! Kill your enemy although your heart doesn't last
(And what you want will be yours)

If your mother doesn't care
If your father is ashamed
If you have more pride don't change your mind
And go straight on

Teenage boy, you get shy for nothing
Now everybody knows it, why do you keep on denying?
But I understand you, in the end we're not so much different
Unselfish, fearless or cold you're always the same for me

You're not able to find your identity
When you fall in crisis everybody laughs
And you cry inside trying to reply
Hide yourself behind the highest wall

Don't change your mind
Don't change your mind
