You Were There
And You Were There

When I asked your mother to marry me
When I told her that I loved her when I held you as long as I could
The 100 times she said no
When I expressed my love for her

And You Are There

but I'm too afraid to see you again because I don't want to waste time On things I cannot have
But I can see you any time

Because You Are There

And our universal Connection
I'm afraid she'll raise you wrong I'm sure she'll do the best she can but she doesn't want me to come along I'd love you both until my end
Still you're always on my mind
