You've been linin' your pockets for no other reason
Than to buy up the things that I gave without reasonable pay

Well, hello my friend
You know I've been away
I'm not askin' for much But please remember my name

'Coz you've been linin' your pockets for no other reason
Than to buy up the things that I gave without
reasonable pay

Well I wondered through fortune
And I flirted with fame
But we never got the money
We always gave it away

See if you've been linin' your pockets for no other reason
Than to buy up the things that I gave without
reasonable pay

Old benchmark on the park he got lost on the world
But he don't seem to know about any of it at all He said, "All the things that I wanted
You know I had to pay and pay and pay and so I say"

You've been linin' your pockets for no other reason
Than to buy up the things that I gave without
reasonable pay, yea

You've been lining your pockets for no other reason
Than to buy up the things that I gave without
reasonable pay, yea

You've been lining your pockets for no other reason
Than to buy up the things that I gave without
reasonable pay, yea

You've been lining your pockets for no other reason
Than to buy up the things that I gave without

reasonable pay, yea
