comfort driving overburden she's still striving to hold together and motivate and de-pressurize compelled to run foot to the floor in all of my memories you were always running away so cold and proud so unashamed you were always running away
just inches from dripfeeding
'don't you worry, i don't have it in me to ever leave you' take this and swallow it down whole and stop this heady mumbling and talk right you're always saying save me i'm a danger to myself who's driving us through this you deserve better drinking becoming someone else someone who's all will come to naught and vanish you're not trying can't save you you're a danger to yourself like you care you just wish for an exit perfectionist you falter all guts no mind to alter

get up
get up
just get up get up and make it work

like you care you just wish for an exit

him search the sky for answers
