Left, in a bitter sweet embrace I was cold enough to picture you without your face And I felt immeasurable fear You're anonymous
And my heart has been dead for years

Maybe the world is really crumbling it's not a reaction to your gravity you are a warning
and this is a war against our old routine smoking and staring at the ceiling
you are a warning
and this is a war

Sleep, if you must stay here tonight
And remain glued to my side I'm trying lord I tried

I told you my heart was empty And god willing You're beginning to see what you're dealing with

This is a war
