Yes, I know
I should get up
but I don't
when I'm waking up
there's no breath
quietness feels like death I need to shake me up now that you have left I reject the days
why can't I just continue my way

Miss your smell
miss to dwell
when I'm waking up
miss to tell you the things I have taken up
since you're not by my side these things don't mean a thing I don't know any more what their sense had been

You think that what you're doing is the best for us and
all
you think that you're choosing the right target to go
for you say you think in long terms, for how long will you ignore
that your decision on choosing has not been the best at
not the best at all

Your definitiveness is just killing me like indifferentists nothing is thrilling me as your love dies my ideals fade away you have taken my decisiveness my engine for my way

all
for

not the best at all

Where are you now
what do you think has your sapient decision paid off
where are you now
do you still think that it will pay off

You think that what youÂ´re doing is the best for us and
you think that youÂ´re choosing the right target to go
for
