I woke up with a start to a phone alarm.
I swore we fell asleep in each other's arms.
It was wishful thinking.
Now the sun's coming up as my hopes are sinking.
I'm thinking I can't take another morning alone,
And the ticking of the minute hand is going too slow
For me to even breathe.
Was it ever even real? Were we ever even forced to leave
Â
Or was it all just a dream?
If so, don't wake me up; just let me be.
Whoa-oh baby, please
Â
Don't be a dream.
I swear I thought I felt you last night but it seemed too
serene.
I want to wake up without the deranged thought
That you're a figment of imagination.
I am crazy as doctors would deem,
So don't be a dream.
Â
I woke up entangled in an angel
Who looks too good to be true from this angle,
So I'll just lay still and Ease the pounding of my heart before it happens to kill me.
The thrill in every beat has somehow made me complete
As she keeps my head above in this sea of sheets.
Another forty winks,
As I'm falling in love with the fluttering of her wings,
Â
But it must have been fake, I think.
If so don't wake me up; just let me be.
Whoa-oh baby, please

Don't be a dream.
I swear I thought I felt you last night but it seemed too
serene.
I want to wake up without the deranged thought
That you're a figment of imagination.

I am crazy as doctors would deem,
So don't be a dream.

Don't be a dream.
I swear I thought I felt you last night but it seemed too
serene.
I want to wake up without the deranged thought
That you're a figment of imagination.

Am I crazy as doctors would deem?
You are simply everything that I need.
Just don't be a dream.
Don't be a dream.
