Wha'cha been doin' for so many years?
Wha'cha been doin' ?
Wha'cha been doin' for so many years?
Wha'cha been doin' ?
When you're in your teens you see life as a dream wanting so much to be what it seems.
You think you want to be that image you see so you strut your stuff around just trying to please.
When you're in your twenties you're not sure what this means
young, na~ve your lights are shining green.
No matter what is said just hold on to your dream not knowing what life really, really means.
Living sweet life from day-to-day
not caring what's on the way.
Your minds just too young to ask yourself
those questions you might ask today.
Wha'cha been doin' for so many years?
Wha'cha been doin' ?
Wha'cha been doin' for so many years?
Wha'cha been doin' ?
Funny in your thirties you start to worry
you go around doing things in a hurry questioning yourself about what you planned have you let some others play your hand?
When you've reach forty, ~Have you reached your glory
or are you just another unhappy story?~
Slide into your fifties and then your search begins
you try to find that inner peace to save your skin.
Reflecting on all the things that you've seen
you scan your entire scene.
Now you can truly ask yourself
you can ask yourself today.
Wha'cha been doin' for so many years?
Wha'cha been doin' ?
Wha'cha been doin' for so many years?
Wha'cha been doin' ?
Sixty you've lived, you live, you exist.
Seventy, eighty tell me what's your wish?
Flashback ninety one hundred is next then we go on to the next vortex.

(Chorus)

(Scat)
