

Haley Yelton "Waiting For The Wind"

Visit "Waiting For The Wind" on MotoLyrics.com

I really think we should take this slow
So much about love is still unknown
Now you're asking me to give my heart to you
But there are forces you can't see
Scattering so much debris
It's hard to believe the damage love can do

You've got me waiting for the wind
To knock me back a couple spaces
Tearing down the trust we built
And leaving only traces
Now I'm turning up my collar whenever love rolls in
I'm holding on and waiting for the wind

I don't expect you to understand
You're not the first sweet weatherman
To say the air is calm, the sky's so clear
But I can feel the warning sign
With your heart beating next to mine
A category five must be churning near

And now I'm waiting for the wind
To knock me back a couple spaces
Tearing down the trust we built
And leaving only traces
Now I'm turning up my collar whenever love rolls in
I'm holding on and waiting for the wind
Now I'm turning up my collar whenever love rolls in I'm holding on and I'm waiting for the wind copyright 2011 by Outback Records

Visit Haley Yelton page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.