

Harrison Wargo "Simpler Times"

Visit "Simpler Times" on MotoLyrics.com

Yeah OK I did it, I harbored a mistake, doubting full (?) I admit it, because I don't owe you a damn thing, don't owe you a damn thing. Someone's in the kitchen, waltzing through the phrase/frames, making drunk confessions, and I made a mistake, of the prettiest of face (?).

Life used to be such simpler of times and I use to see the good in everybody's eyes.

There's flowers in the city, but they're never gonna grow; found they could never fit me, I'm better off in the home where I can go it alone.

Everybody's hiding, oh I can see it on their face, all of the time they're buying, thinking "what's out of place?" Just say what you want to say. Just say what you want to say.

Life used to be such simpler times, and I use to see the good in everybody's eyes.

Yeah OK I did it, I harbored a mistake, I said yeah OK I did it. AHH ahh ahh.

Visit Harrison Wargo page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.