

Heartless Bastards "Parted Ways"

And the wind it blows through the atmosphere and the air filled with the dust such a far collection within every direction some place i've already been and no, drive slow, loneliness too many things have changed and no, I just don't look at things the same way now since we parted ways
out in the space, i'm alone with the only hum of the wheels, they are carrying me on to a wild space to breathe in, oh i need it, a wild space to breathe in, whole and the sun went down, in this little ghost town near the valley of the rio grande i need a little bit of whiskey and a little bit of time to ease my troubled mind lost love and loneliness, so many things have change and no, i just don't look at thing same way now since we parted ways
on to a wild space to breathe in, whole
