

Heart Of A Warrior "Waterfalls"

It's times like this
My back against the wall
I stand outside to catch the rain that falls
My head held high
Staring at the sky
Turning pages, writing chapters to my life

I've come too far, I can't let go
This means too much to me
Like waterfalls I'll stay in place
But constantly flowing
Pressing on, staying strong
Like the flame that burns in me
I've come too far, I can't let go
I can't let go

It felt so wrong but looked so right
It's hard to tell when something's out of sight
Try to take this
If you haven't noticed
You can rip apart my heart but not my pride

And if I stayed would you walk away
Pouring poison in my wounds
Leaving the scene of your perfect crime
Scattering the pieces into the night

You took away what I loved most
And even though I'll keep you close
I never want to see your ghost
And if I do, at least I'll know

I've learned to block the memories out of my mind
I've learned that everything heals with time
I've come too far, I won't let go
