Those who saw my figure and name
Defined me as a ghost
Deaf and blind witness mute paralyzed witness
In every moment a witness dies by his throne

Through the physical presence
And nameless paradoxical law
Hours became minutes
And minutes became decay

Deaf and blind witness mute paralyzed witness
In every moment a witness dies by his throne

Protect your servitude and blow
A wind to deflower it's vow
At the time my bones grow old
My flesh will whisper a song of gold
More than a simple sight will make
A difficult view for you to take

As long as I measure the distance
One more step is added to my existence
As I am trying to reach my avoidance
One more clue is added to my evidence

Purvey the gruesome of the witness so he can forget

As long as I measure the distance
One more step is added to my existence
But if you reached at the end of your faith
You will believe that there was always
A sky as a source for these dirty drops of rain
Covering your brain
