I'm a runner when it comes to being alone
I lost the race because you shoot 'em alive
I'm the same one that you taught
To keep my head in the light
I feel the slipping' and you're there to remind me again

I know, you're better off at saving the world
But they don't know you're so damn persistent

I'm falling out of love
Like the foam isn't foaming at your mouth
It's not the way i could tell
I crossed the line and i know what i said
Your call to arms will be the last time you're feeling alive

Running blind cause i can't see you being alone
I see the break and you still wait for the bend
You're the same one that i fought
To keep my head out of light
I feel the brightness and you're there to remind me again

I remember you singing it that loud
You didn't need to remind bout where to go
They're always seeking a brand new sound
And we'll be selling out this
Time to go
I can't believe you would think
That the trust i could support everything
Under the weight of the timeline
Through everything you said
You'll be packing up and I'll be alone once again
Translating this and you never seemed so impossible
Just tried to see this through
Its not Impossible

I'm falling out of love
Like the foam isn't foaming at your mouth
It's not the way i could tell
I crossed the line and i know what i said
This is the last time
