He knows your heart
He knows your pain
He knows the strength it took just too simply breathe today
He sees the tears that you cry
He knows your soul is aching to know why He hears your prayers each humble word When you said you couldn't face another day he understood
He knows the path that you will find Though you felt alone he's never left your side

Chorus:

He knew there'd be moments when no earthly words Could take away your sorrow
And no human eyes could see what you're going through
When you've taken your last step and done all that you can do
He will lift your heavy load and carry you

He'll bring you peace and leave you hope
And in the darkest night he'll comfort you Until you know the sun will rise and each new day
You will have the strength to live again

Chorus:

And when there are moments when no earthly words can take away your sorrow
And no human eyes could see what you're going
through
When you've taken your last step and done all that you
can do
He will lift your heavy load and carry you

He hears you when you're crying in the night
He hears you when your soul longs to find Till the morning will come
And the light of the dawn reassures

Chorus:

That in the moments when no earthly words
can take away your sorrow
And no human eyes could see what you're going
through
When you've taken your last step and done all that you
can do
He will lift your heavy load and carry you
