Those warm summer nights

Eighty five degrees

I watched your smile

Felt the warm summer breeze

But the wind blew too hard

Carried you far away

Now I don't think I

Have the strength to stay

(chorus)

I'm going back to New England

To the life that I knew

Away from this place of heartbreak

Away from you

I'm going back to New England

To make myself whole

Again

I'll call from Grand Central

When the first snow falls

My heart it is frozen

You can't break down these walls

I'm going back to New England

Cuz you're staying here

When winter came around

I ignored every storm

Wrapped in your arms

I was warm, safe and warm

But the storm brought us down

Made me crash to the ground

And you got away

(chorus)

I'm going back to New England

To the life that I knew

Away from this place of heartbreak

Away from you

I'm going back to New England

To make myself whole

Again

I'll call from Grand Central

When the first snow falls

My heart it is frozen

You can't break down these walls

I'm going back to New England

Cuz you're staying here

And maybe one day

You'll decide to move up

You'll go and find me on the day

That you grow up

And maybe you'll see

This is not what

We were meant to be

But until then

(chorus)

I'm going back to New England

To the life that I knew

Away from this place of heartbreak

Away from you

I'm going back to New England

To make myself whole

Again

My heart it is frozen

You can't break down these walls

I'm going back to New England

Cuz you're staying here
