one day, one day, one day it all will fade
one day, one day, one day it all will fade empty moments sleepless nights, i think about you every night wondering what went wrong

What we had would seem so right but just as quick your out of sight you talk to me with words like moving on did it seem so simple to you was I just another thing for you to do did you ever mean the things you said or was I just another notch on your bed

I thought you needed me too, I thought your feelings were true
I thought you head was in my space but now you've proven me wrong but I will rise and be strong and one day soon this pain will fade, oh
one day, one day, one day it all will fade

I just wanted things to be so good a simple life just simple love something hard to find these days but you thought life owed you more than this with your magazines and shopping trips one day your beauty will fade

or was i just another notch on your bed

were true
I thought you head was in my space
but now you've proven me wrong
and one day soon this pain will fade

were true
I thought you head was in my space
but now you've proven me wrong and I will rise and be strong and one day this pain will fade
