I'm walking empty streets wondering if you ever knew there was another opportunity another solution for you.

A lonely voice said there will always be a Me & you why weren't you here when dark grey returned to blue?

I will remember
the smiles you gave to me and the voice said
there will always be a We.

I'm not bitter,
but I've had so many better days, I fell and suddenly

I had noone to help me raise.

I had no chance,
there was no roses to dance on,
so many dreams was defeated,
They were broken and then they were gone.

I will remember
the smiles you gave to me
and the voice said
there will always be a We.

Baby, if I could have just one night I would have raised I would have told you, there's no answers to your questions, no written answer to what's right to do.

There is no answers..
