

Jen Hirsh "Finish Line"

Visit "Finish Line" on MotoLyrics.com

I inhale and run for cover
If I breathe out, will I find another?
Of course I will
I open the door
Seize the moment and off I go

I'll find my way across that bridge to a new place
I'll be okay
Slow and steady wins the race
And I might cross the finish line today
Today!

Just like spring in the summer
I can change but I'm not the weather
Clouds will break but my umbrella will keep me safe
Until I get my home

I'll find my way across that bridge to a new place
I'll be okay
Slow and steady wins the race
I might cross the finish line today
Today!

I'm on the starting block
The first lap of a marathon
I might be better off if I won, I will not run away
I hear the starting gun
I wait for my time to come
I might be better off and I know it won't long

I'll find my way across that bridge to a new place
I'll be okay
Slow and steady wins the race
I'll find my way across that bridge to a new place
I'll be okay
Slow and steady wins the race
I think I have found my place
And I might cross the finish line today
Today! Today!
Today! Today...

