Julia went away somewhere far, far away from the coast

Left behind all things she loved and the things she treasured the most

And there she'll be happy

And maybe she'll marry

She could never feel special here, there was "just something wrong with the air"

And once she'd taken her first breath she left without a moment to spare

'Cos solitude's cozy

And life can be rosy

And so she said...

I must get away from here I'm suffocating I can take no more

There are so many things I've never seen I've got a whole lot to explore

I've got to do this alone, must see the world on my own

Don't need a hand to hold

Don't need a hand to hold

Julia liked to drive real fast and to feel that she had control

Didn't care much for regulations and rules that suppressed her soul

She felt she was winning

And so she left singing...

I must get away from here I'm suffocating I can take no more

There are so many things I've never seen I've got a whole lot to explore

I've got to do this alone, must see the world on my own

Don't need a hand to hold

Don't need a hand to hold

But every time she failed to smile (She would be so unhappy yeah)

She would regret her new lifestyle (She would be so unhappy yeah)

And she would contemplate that magic movie moments are made
When loved ones are by your side

And then she said...

Come take me away from here I'm drowning in my tears of loneliness
You must be some kind of superhero I've no fear no it will evanesce
If you will just take me home, don't let me be on my own
I need a hand to hold
I need a hand to hold

Come take me away from here I'm longing for the life I had before
You must be some kind of superhero I've no fear no, no not anymore
If you will just take me home, don't wanna be on my own
I need a hand to hold
I need a hand to hold
I need a hand to hold
I need a hand to hold
