I used to stand out in the sunshine
And look for rain
Behind every silver lightning
I saw a hurricane
But when you wrapped your arms around me so tight
You erased the moody shadows from my light
You showed me how, to chase the clouds away

You got me lookin on the bright side of life
You got me cookin with the right kind of spice
You turned a raindrop, into a rainbow
You make my heart stop,
And honey it sure shows
Like the flowers in the breeze
Like the new leaves on the trees
You turned a winter heart to spring
You got me lookin on the bright side

I was blinded by a broken heart
And an old memory
I walked around with my head hung low
Then you rescued me
Now I no longer let the roses pass me by
Your love has really opened up my eyes
You gave me a different point of view

You got me lookin on the bright side of life
You got me cookin with the right kind of spice
You turned a raindrop, into a rainbow
You make my heart stop,
And honey it sure shows
Like the flowers in the breeze
Like the new leaves on the trees
You turned a winter heart to spring

Repeat Chorus
