And we saw Cat Power,
Singing hour after hour,
Of a future that would never be.

And I sank to the bottom,
for a summer and an autumn,
tryin' to figure out it which was me.

And she pinned me down to the Lady Parade groove,
Waiting for the soul to stray,
When I quieted down, I heard the sound.
And that's the greatest song I ever heard,
Yeah, that's the greatest song I ever heard.

Now I saw Bob Dylan gone electric,
Feeling Pete Seeger with his axe in the crowd.
Maggie and the farm, never meant no harm.
But the heart started beating to loud.

And I caught a glimpse, of a feeling I had once,
But let it all slip away with the pain.
And I'm just playing, never stop playing.
Cause that's the greatest song I ever heard, I ever heard, yeah.
That's the greatest song I ever heard
That's the greatest song I ever heard.
That's the greatest song I ever heard.

We solved all the problems
With bigger problems, with bigger problems.

We solved all the problems
With bigger problems, with bigger problems.
The greatest song I ever heard
We solved all the problems
With bigger problems, with bigger problems.
Is the greatest song I ever heard
We solved all the problems
With bigger problems, with bigger problems.
The greatest song I ever heard.
