"O, Dana"

I'd rather shoot a woman than a man.
I worry whether this is my last life.
And girl, if you're listening,
I'm sorry, I can't help it

O Dana.
O Dana, come on.

I'm forevermore fighting with Steven.
We do our goo-goo coos.
But we know overboard and down,
and strung out twice

O Dana.
O Dana, come on.

We seldom know what things are.
Two illusions go very far.

O Dana.
O Dana, come on.

I got busted along the bridge.
They rounded up every soul.
Now I'm on the East Side,
she says, "Don't give a girl a chance".
She's not afraid to take a chance

O Dana.
O Dana, come on.

She's got a magic wand,
that says play with yourself before other ones.

O Dana.
O Dana, come on.
