Babe, I just want you to prove it
Just give me some faith and I'll give you some time
Between these basement walls
I will show you what love really feels, like

We'll go backwards
I'll turn this around if you'll let me
I swear, no I promise
I won't be your last first love, not your last first love

It's always so uncertain
And it's been gone, these past few weeks
And I know I've told you
That your too distant for a girl your age

So are you scared to love, or are you scared to try Hide between those lips and behind those eyes
But you know I won't push,
No I'll just hold you

Its all against the rules, and up against your thighs
And those summer-nights, I can't bring them back
So I'll whisper your name
And then I'll never hear mine
Im scared to say I'm fucking tired of waiting

We'll go backwards
I'll turn this around if you'll let me
I swear, no I promise
I won't be your last first love, not your last first, no your last
