A secret life, her secret love
A woman's touch, still curious
But a man of faith, the man she loved
Still tries to care,
but just a man can't give her what she wanted

The walls cave in
And there's somebody else in the mirror
She could come back, she could come back, but
She won't, no she won't, no she won't, but she

She never wanted, for anyone to get caught up
In the mess she made when she was still so young
But those fantasies, those broken dreams,
Crawl back to remind her, yes they always remind her

The walls cave in
And there's somebody else in the mirror
She could come back, she could come back, but
She won't, no she won't, no she won't, but she

The walls cave in
And there's somebody else in the mirror
She could come back,
But she won't, but she won't, but she won't, no she...
