Every mornin' you show up at the farm, tattoo on either
arm
And give my daddy eight long hours.
I can see you steal a glance, every single chance
Hoping I'll be at my window.

Barn door fixed and the hay is cut
The sun is set and you're packing up
And you thing I'll jump right in your truck
You're just gettin' started.

Still got a little more work to do,
Before you sweep me off my boots.
Sorry, I don't fall that easy.
I need more than a "hey there, baby"
Don't think for a minute you'll play me
Tell you right now boy
You're gonna have to beg for a kiss or two
You still got a little more work to do.

I admit, when you take off your shirt and get down in the dirt
It's hard for me to look away.
But I, wanna know there's more than that
Underneath that baseball cap
So show me at the end of the day.

When you finished all my daddy's chores
And you come knocking at my door
Be ready to work a whole lot more,
You're just gettin' started.

Still got a little more work to do,
Before you sweep me off my boots.
Sorry, I don't fall that easy.
I need more than a "hey there, baby"
Don't think for a minute you'll play me
Tell you right now boy
You're gonna have to beg for a kiss or two
And you still got a little more work to do.
Yeah you still got a little more work to do.

You still got a little more work to do,
Before you sweep me off my boots.
Sorry, I don't fall that easy.
I need more than a "hey there, baby"
Don't think for a minute you'll play me
Tell you right now boy
You're gonna have to beg for a kiss or two
And you still got a little more work to do.

I need more, more than a "hey there, baby"
Don't think for a minute you'll play me
Tell you right now boy
You're gonna have to beg for a kiss or two
And you still got a little more work to do.
You still got a little more work to do.
