Verse 1: Krayzie

They tellin' me the crime is decreasin'.
And what is the reason for the brutality?
Huh.
They killing these niggas in cold blood,
Bone Thug.
Been a part of the reality,
all the insanity.
Ain't no more humanity.
What ever happened to family?
Lost men way back in the game,
back when the crack came.
And it ain't too much changed here today seems like it's neva' gon' get betta'.
Wonder if we'll ever get to live in peace.
These Days of our Livez,
they keep on getting shorter eveytime that I realize,
that it won't be too long before...
we wake up and the world is gon',

and it won't be no World War it'll be Armaggedon fo' sho'...

It's all about the roads that you choose.

Well what is there to do?

When you out there stunnin' like Oooooohhh.

And I can feel your pain young thugs.

Stay focus.

Cause we can get this money young thugs.

Even though the end of days are comin',

(comin') you can get it right.

Right now do something for somebody.

Just hold on fo' me.

(Fo' me.)

I promise there's a betta' place for all us T.H.U.G.'s

Verse 3: Layzie

Sometimes I sit back and I think.
Why me?
Now how did I become a victim of the struggle?
Everyday tryin' to piece this puzzle.
And every second I'm out on the hustle.
I sit and I gussle.
Hopin' reality done pass me by.
Right on by.
And I'm not gonna' sit and lieie.
All of my life is bein' fine.
Like a test on wheels.
Alot of determination and skills.
And the death ain't neva' come easy.
Now with a nickel gotta pay these bills,
and scrape this meal.
Feed the man in the house.
Gotta' keep that money comin'.
I gotta' be out here doing something rather than sit back broke with nothing.
Can you feel me?
If I have to come and get chu I'ma get chu.
You gon' feel me.
And what did they say about Lil Lay?
He's a Ghetto Legend.
Niggas is out here threatnin', cause I'm headed for Armaggeddon baby.
