I, I used to be your little girl
But now you've turned against me
You have just gone and struck me down again
Now I feel like I'm nothing
I used to think that I could take it all for them
Helping them up when they're hurt
But you, you just knock them right back down again.
I used to just let it go.
Even though you could bring me down with a single blow.
But what you don't know, you still don't know that.
Someday, my dreams, my dreams will have come true
But you will never be anything.
Someday I'll be going on without you.
And you will never be anything.
But why does it have to be me?
I want to shut you out right now.
'Cause you've just pushed me down again.
You say I'll never be anything.
But I'll stand up against you.
And I'll be my own person
Don't pretend you don't hear me.

Because I know you do.

Don't say that I'm nothing.

And still, I feel sorry for you.

You don't know what love is like.

What it feels like to have a life.

Maybe someone turned you cold.

But you don't know, you still don't know that.

Someday, my dreams, my dreams will have come true

But you will never be anything

Someday I'll be going on without you

And you will never be anything

But why does it have to be me?

And I can see years from now

Alone without anyone

And it will be your own fault

You deserve every second.

Maybe I've turned so cold I could never forgive.

You'll still be shouting your opinion.

But nobody's there to listen.

And Someday, my dreams, my dreams will have come true

But you will never be anything

Someday I'll be going on without you

And you will never be anything

But why does it have to be me?

You're such a liar

You're just heartless

You'll be lonely.

But why does it have to be me?

Why does it have to be me?

Yes, me.

Why does it have to be me?

And Someday, my dreams, my dreams will have come true

But you will never be anything

Someday I'll be going on without you

And you will never be anything

Someday, my dreams, my dreams will have come true

Someday
