It's a conscious decision
And I can't hide my feelings within it
I can't find the words to say to you...
Tonight

Let's start from the beginning
When I was young and you were still forgiving
When I could lose my mind and find a way...
To put it right

I can't disguise the way I'm feeling when we start to fight
I say it over and over but I just can't get through

And I can't hide the rush I feel when you look in my eyes
I'm thinking over and over and over about you

It's no consolation
But I got caught up in the situation
I can't find a way to hold you close...
Enough tonight
There's no real decisions
I'll stay right here 'till I can find the reasons
'Till I can work it out and keep you here...
For just tonight

I can't disguise the way I'm feeling when we start to
fight
I say it over and over but I just can't get through

And I can't hide the rush I feel when you look in my
eyes

I can't disguise the way I'm feeling when we start to
fight
I say it over and over but I just can't get through

And I can't hide the rush I feel when you look in my
eyes
I'm thinking over and over and over about you
