you can't fight the wind blowing in your face you can never win a race without a chase

you can't hide away in an open space and you can't live a day with a dying faith

I've learned it all, I did and while gritting my teeth I built my fortress strong and still tell me I'm a little frail well I got nothing to prove tell me I don't know a thing I think you're a lying fool rise and shine dear soldier the war gives us no excuse tell me I'm so insane

I tell you I'll catch that train tell me you're a real man I think you speak in vain
the war is over and you lose you can't build a world without a maker's soul and you can never hold what you have never known you can't let it go until you've felt your pain and you can never burn

'till you become the rain

I wake up from the storm I feel my colors burn
I smell the air I know I live again reborn you can tell me I'm a hopeless child you can tell me I won't be alright rise and shine

rise and shine soldier our victory will come so come you can tell me I will take the fall you can tell me I won't fly, but crawl
you see nothing nothing at all
