Everything you say, everything you do,
All the things you own, all the things you knew,
Everyone you love, everyone you hate,
All will be erased and replaced.

Everything you take, everything you gave,
All the things you've found, all the things you've made,
Everyone you lost and saved,
Nothing will remain, cradle or grave.

Every precious child and every mothers kiss,
All that went before and all that follows this,
Every moment shared hour of the day
No record will remain, all will fade away.

Every dream you had and every battle won,
All the hopes and fears, bombs and guns,
Fear is the last planet and sun,
All is erased another is begun.

There will be no song, when the final voices gone

Everything you say, everything you do,
All the things you own, all the things you knew,
Everyone you love, everyone you hate,
All will be erased and replaced.

Everything you take, everything you gave,
All the things you've found, all the things you've made,
Everyone you lost and saved,
Nothing will remain, cradle or grave.

Every dream you had and every battle won,
All the hopes and fears, bombs and guns,
Fear is the last planet and sun,
All is erased another is begun.
