Another day, another night
Another week, I keep my phone turned on
When you're awake, when I'm awake
When I'm asleep, just so you know if you want to get to me
You'll whisper away from me,
Another card, another rose, another thorn
Wish you were here in denial
You, for every break of every dawn
That I wasn't there to sing you a lullaby
If you can't fall asleep tonight
You can call on me, put it all on me

Even if a rainstorm keeps you in Seattle
If hurricanes and planes are grounded in Chicago
I will wait for you; find a way to you, by night

Anytime and any miles, any place
We're never far away
If there's a road to take a bus or ride a train
My home is anywhere that your heart will be
Well you rest your head on me
Turning day to night under the sheets

And even if a rainstorm keeps in Seattle
If hurricanes and planes are grounded in Chicago
I will wait for you, find a way to you
And even if our roll light bursts into a fire
If heaven's arm reach down, and fight to take us higher
I will wait for you; find a way to you, by night

When we get home, we'll hit the grocery store
Sing our favorite songs on the living room floor
Then we'll watch TV, throw our phones away
And we'll dance under covers, sleep all day
Yeah, when we get home, we'll hit the grocery store

Singing Valley Winter on the living room floor
Then we'll watch TV, throw our phones away
Making love under covers, sleep all day

And if a rainstorm keeps you in Seattle
If hurricanes and planes are grounded in Chicago
I will wait for you, find a way to you
Even if our roll light bursts into a fire
If heaven's arm reach down, and they fight to take us higher
I will wait for you; find a way to you, by night
Night, night
