[Verse 1]

It's an age-old question, it's bound to keep you guessing
Been going since the dawn of time
When are women and men ever gonna understand
They're as different as water and wine
She like restaurants, nice long foot rubs
On romantic weekends
He's more hardcore, cold beer football
Laying down a bet with his friends

They may be different but they're better together
They need each other like a bird needs a feather

[Chorus]

Oh like the river needs the rain
Like a newborn baby needs to have a name.
Oh like the night needs the day
You're in the middle of a story and you don't know how
it ends
That's just women and men

[Verse 2]

She could spend all day sitting in a caf  
Or shopping for brand new shoes
He'd rather be sitting on a boat going fishing
Or cooking up a BBQ

They may be different but they're better together
They need each other like a bird needs a feather

[Chorus]

Oh like the river needs the rain
Like a newborn baby needs to have a name.
Oh like the night needs the day
You're in the middle of a story and you don't know how
it ends
That's just women and men

Since Adam and Eve ate the apple from the tree
Well it's always been this way

It's history and I believe
It ain't ever gonna change, never gonna change
Never gonna change

They may be different but they're better together
They need each other like a bird needs a feather

Oh, women and men,
That's just women, women and men

[Chorus]

Oh like the river needs the rain
Like a newborn baby needs to have a name.
Oh like the night needs the day
You're in the middle of a story and you don't know how
it ends
That's just women and men
