I'm a little bit rusted, a little bit worn my frame's just a little askew my manual's missing, my packaging's torn but I've got an offer for you if you're in the market I'm here on the shelves in the back with the dust and debris there's still good years left in me, take me as is take me home with no guarantee

I'm a little untrusting, a little confused I thought it was right you should know that I've been mistreated and I've been misused but I wasn't built to let go and if you trade me in for a newer or sexier model I wouldn't blame you, I'm nothing to show to your friends I'm cause I'm battered and bruised and I've burnt all that's left of bravado but I'll do my best for you right until I meet my end
