Well I'm thankful that the sun came up this morning though I didn't sleep a wink at all last night and the feelings crept upon us without warning but we had to bring these thoughts into the light we've said our parts, we know where this is heading our faces show we both are wearing thing but breaking hearts can hold each other steady and smile about the places we have been well I know they say be happy with just what you've got but I know that what we've got ain't gonna stay and I know the sun's not coming up tomorrow, so let it shine on today a few short hours we'll hold it all together a few short days will bring us to an end a few short months ago we said forever but just hold me in the sunlight once again we both know that it's over we're not kidding ourselves so why keep going over and under and through it all let's just let it fall and I'll be with you for an hour or two
