It's never coming back
It sure as hell won't take your place
And no one told you the things you needed to know

And I'm not sorry now
The way you said I would be
And all the things you took and the things you left for me, for me

And I wish that it wasn't so
If I could take it back, I don't know

When everything is wrong and nothing feels right
And everyone has left, no one said goodbye
The days seem so lonely and I've never been this scared
This four letter word is all I have left, it's all I have

Live it like you're alive
Love it as if you were dying
The only way out is through the front door

How did it go so wrong?
Without me even knowing Oh, you were biding your time and looking for your place in love, was it love?

And I wish that it wasn't so
If I could take it back, I don't know

When everything is wrong and nothing feels right
And everyone has left, no one said goodbye
The days seem so lonely and I've never been this
scared
This four letter word is all I have left, it's all I have

Love is for those who put their trust in it
Pain is for people who still have no worth Hope is lost when there's no need to give in Hate is the word we always believed in

When everything is wrong and nothing feels right

And everyone has left, no one said goodbye
The days seem so lonely and I've never been this
scared
And you were so strong you touched with no hands
And all the days that we missed, gonna find where they've been
I don't care if you love me just say that I win
And I'll try harder this time when I know that I'm right You hung up the phone the night that God saved my life
And every new beginning comes from some other's end
This four letter word, it's all I have left, it's all I have

Love is for those who put their trust in it
Pain is for people who still have no worth

Love is for those who put their trust in it
Pain is for people who still have no worth
