

One More Time

"Crossroads"

Visit "Crossroads" on MotoLyrics.com

I'm at the crossroads of hope and surrender
And I know that it's time to choose my way
Countless nights when my tears give no answer
Endless days when the world looks grey

Somehow we choose too easliy
Those safe, familiar places
Life cries out to be lived on the razor's edge

There was a time we would die for each other
Love so deep, thought it never could go wrong
Where's the passion that once burned inside us?
All those warm, tender words we counted on are gone

I'm at the crossroads of hope and surrender
Now it seems we are fighting every day
Guess that you feel the same way as I do
Yet we don't have a thing to say

Somehow we choose too easliy
Those safe, familiar places
Life cries out to be lived
On the razor's edge

Two frozen souls and no sign of them melting
Barely touch, after loving for so long
Where's the passion that once burned inside us?
All those warm tender words that made us strong are gone

Visit One More Time page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.