It feels like its been much too long being on this planet wondering whether or not this life was just handed to me on a platter by somebody or something who helped install the twisted turns and lessons this life brings I know ive always had a different perspective im walking outside the lines looking search for a message to invest in with my perception when it has to do with meaning and movements with the connections but yet the sections turn into a sequence surprised to realize im on a whole nother frequency of speaking wreaking havoc on another weekend session telling me to be what I believe in but I cant help but contradict myself when I change my ways I stay true to myself we make the same mistakes twice cus weâ€™™ re only flesh and blood youre not the games you play to win you what you love In my elevated state a meditative place reality and time is a segregated space I let the thoughts flow in a sea of abstraction and ride the wave like the wind its trying to chase out the window the room im familiar outside the moon illuminates the inferior no longer weary a voice that sounds like an angel tangles with the noise of hysteria and overpowers hours pass like second light thinking to myself this has to be a second life im separate right but then again we are all nothing more than one in a septem light intertwined with the stars pass motherships or down on land where the cars pass others quick where nothing is everything and everything is nothing more than just a vast nothingness Close my eyes and blink myself away no surprise is linked to yesterday living in the moment im zoning mind controlling mind controlling
