the first time that i heard your voice i thought that must be what angels sound like the first time that i looked into your eyes i couldnt breath those eyes have been gentle on my mind youre forever on my mind the word you spoke linger through my mind the way you speak your charm and that smile take my hand take me to your heart take my heart well youve already done that and make me this promise just love love me forever the way your hands are intertwined with mine is how i want to spend the rest of my life. I wanna fall asleep to your voice and sleep with you forever the way you breathe when youre sleeping next to me you look so peacefully i wanna wake up to you smiling back at me everyday and forever take my hand and take me to your heart take my heart well youve already done that and make me this promise just love me forever i love you forever i love you forever if you let me make me this promise love me forever
