

On The Last Day "At The Breaking Of The World"

Visit "At The Breaking Of The World" on MotoLyrics.com

Panic, the earth is heaving up beneath me. I've got nothing to say to besides it's over. Fire breaks through the window pane, it's coming. The guilt weighs down on me, heavy. This is the last moment that I'll ever feel. Then finally I find the thing that keeps me safe. Here comes the rain. To douse the flame, to wash away all my mistakes. Ruins stand stark against the sky and smolder. The air is heavy and it smells of sulfur. Sirens warn of the coming fear, take cover. Here comes the second wave for me. Triggered, by my failures. Carried, in the flames. Our part, is ending, trust me, I'm not afraid. Black smoke, on the horizon, the sky is burning, but where are you, I won't die alone. I won't die. Then finally (Then finally) I find the thing (That keeps me safe) Here comes the rain (To douse the flame) To wash away (All my mistakes)

Visit On The Last Day page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.