Step into frame. This is your scene. The end is the same. It can't be changed.

You can't escape. You can't erase this part of fate. We're all the same here at the end of the journey.

Just one more day. Just one more chance to say the things that I meant to say. Wait... just one more day. Then you can burn my body, leave, and white out my name.

Stand behind me (Stay still) So safe (shielded) no pain (Slip frame by frame) Rewrite the end (Before) The last (No way) reel spins (It can't be changed) Now that I stand here at the end of all places; I understand that the meaning is the journey.

Just one more day. Just one more chance to say the things that I meant to say. Wait... just one more day. Then you can burn my body, leave, and white out my name.

Find the message in the static. Heed the warnings there. Search for meaning in the journey. Balance in between.
