If I had the words that would fit the verse perfectly I'd sing it everyday
If I had a car that matched my imagination, I'd drive it everyday
If there was a movie that blew me away, I'd watch it
everyday
If oceans moved like people do, I'd be sailing
everyday.

I've watched TV and been noticing how the stars have everything
If I knew just how to walk away I'd never be thrown with the trash that day I'd wake up in the morning counting funds making sure there were only present ones I'd like to bank for one range so I don't have to carry change

I drove last night it was an all-nighter, avoided accidents all the way It's funny how people piss you off, mutual feels are up on lofts
And they'll leave you feeling gone
They'll bring you to the point where you're so wrong
