You sent a pin for my birthday
And a dime for my efforts, mmm
And a chain for my precious princess neck
All while Iâ€™m, craving for answers

I shouldâ€™ve known that nothingâ€™s ever good enough
for you
I shouldâ€™ve known that nothingâ€™s ever good enough
for you
I shouldâ€™ve known that nothingâ€™s ever good enough
for you
I shouldâ€™ve known

So you sent me a picture
Itâ€™s resting well on my shrine
But my hands keep on twisting
I canâ€™t get no peace of mind

Was I not good enough
Was I not boy enough
Was I not sweet enough
Was I not good enough

I shouldâ€™ve known that nothingâ€™s ever good enough
for you...

You wonâ€™t see the tears on my pillow
Or know the fires I light or how I sing to stop my room from spinning You wonâ€™t see the pride in my woman like steps
Or know how I donâ€™t care about winning

Was I not good enough
Was I not boy enough
Was I not sweet enough
Was I not good enough

for you...
