you say it's not a game that you play but sometimes you don't hear what you say i spend my nights in bed without you spend most my days thinking about why does everything around me fall apart?

when the world comes crashing down and every things gone wrong why does everything about you feel so right?

i wonder why it took so long
to hold you in my arms
and how bad I wish
that you were here tonight

so if I ask nice
would you stay with me forever?
can i hold you in my arms all through the night but you say some things, that don't sound very nice and i wonder if we could make it through the days well this is the life we choose we play to win, but mostly lose and in the end hope it all comes out alright we spend most our lives to find the answers but in the end all that matters is the ones we thought were wrong were really right

feel so right?

to hold you in my arms

so if I ask nice

would you stay with me forever?

I'm so sick of wondering just what we're gonna do i just wish this one time you would tell me the truth

feel so right?

would you stay with me forever?

would you stay, would you stay, would you stay
so if I ask nice
