as you stare
from here to the rest of your life does it scare you?

somewhere
it became something less than alright cause it was safe to

you've given up
you give a listen
your ears wide open but.. your eyes and mouth tight shut you've made it up

i can see you turning nothing
into something good
into something true
into something that might be beautiful

you sense
the pain that is breaking your back and you notice

your defense
leaves you no room for attack and you know this

you've given up
you drag yourself from year to weary year till there's nothing left but fear it's pretty clear
i can see you turning nothing
into something good

[break 1]

you place
a bookmark and swear you'll return

but somehow

you can't face
the thought of when you get your turn you might not know how

on everything that makes you feel alive pretend your satisfied and let it slide

i can see you turning nothing

[break 2]
